

3M Fall Protection Issues a STOP USE - FIELD SERVICE ACTION Notice on Free Standing Counterweight Anchor Using An Evolution Leap Post.

May 17, 2017

3M Fall Protection (formerly Capital Safety) has issued a Stop Use - Field Service Action to address field reports of broken end-posts (also known as Lead Energy Absorbing Posts, or "LEAP posts") used in roof-mounted Evolution™ Horizontal Lifeline Systems. The same Evolution end-posts are also used in Free Standing Counterweight Anchor systems.

There have been no reports of fall-related injuries associated with this condition.

To address the Free Standing Counterweight Anchor situation, 3M is launching a global Stop Use – Field Service Action to retrieve and replace all end-posts used in these Anchors sold between 2005 and 2015 (at which time the Evolution end-post was discontinued and replaced with a Roof Safe end-post).

The P/N's affected include 7226000, 7240313, 7255000, 7255002 & 7255003.

3M Fall protection is instructing customers to inspect their counterweight anchor. If they have an Evolution Leap Post, they should be taken out of service immediately and use an alternative fall protection solution. 3M asks that its customers contact their Customer Service department at 800-328-6146 (prompt #2012) or email 3MUSFPServiceAction@mmm.com.
